

TCEA iPad Educator Capacity Matrix

Click here to copy the Capacity Matrix to your Google Drive. You will then be able to complete the capacity matrix by reflecting on your skill level for each item and selecting the appropriate box that represents your CURRENT level.

Welcome	Ready to Learn	In Progress	Ready to Go	Notes
I am familiar with the basic rules of netiquette.
I know how to access and copy the TCEA iPad Educator Capacity Matrix.
I know how to ask questions via the iPad Educator Meetup.

1. iPad Basics	Ready to Learn	In Progress	Ready to Go	Notes
I know where the basic features of the iPad are located (Home button, microphone, volume up/down, wake/sleep button, etc.).
I know how to use gestures to interact with the iPad.
I know how to locate Settings and can find basic information about my iPad (software version, module number, capacity, available capacity, how many apps I have installed, etc.).
I can access and edit the Control Center.
I know how to find free apps that may be useful in my classroom.

2. iPad Tools for Teachers	Ready to Learn	In Progress	Ready to Go	Notes
I know several places to explore for more apps and resources.
I can identify several productivity apps and how to use them with my students.
I can identify a few apps to help me with presenting (as well as displaying my iPad) with my students.
I know how to evaluate educational apps by using a checklist and a rubric.
I can share with others about how I use (or plan to use) iPads in my classroom.

3. Integrating iPads into Instruction	Ready to Learn	In Progress	Ready to Go	Notes
I can define a “1 iPad Classroom” and “1:1”.
I can identify several apps that can help me if I’m teaching in a 1 iPad classroom setting.
I can identify several apps that can help me if I’m teaching in a 1:1 setting.
I know several strategies that can help with classroom management.
I know several apps that are interactive and engaging that I can use with my students.
I can identify a few apps that can help with social and emotional learning.

4. Apps for Teaching and Learning	Ready to Learn	In Progress	Ready to Go	Notes
I can identify the six levels of Bloom's Taxonomy.
I know that I can have my students use an app in different ways to perform different levels of cognition.
I know how to use ChatterPix in my content area.
I know the basics of creating a Flipgrid.
I can create a screencast on my iPad by using the Screen Recording feature.
I know how my students can use Doodle Buddy to demonstrate mastery of specific content standards.

Glossary	Ready to Learn	In Progress	Ready to Go	Notes
I am aware of different terms and their meanings relevant to iPad.
I know how to turn on Airplane Mode.
I know how to access and enable various Accessibility features.
I can change my iPad wallpaper.
I know what Touch ID and Passcode is.				